DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-18 are pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Adler (4,997,516) or Fakler et al. (5,753,309) or Yoshizawa et al. (5,925,403). Adler discloses a method of improving adherence of copper foil (col.1 lines 9-24) by oxidizing a copper surface and reducing it with an alkaline solution to form metallic copper (col.3 lines 37-53). The copper precursors do not contain fluorine (col.4 lines 4-30).

Fakler discloses a method for reducing copper oxide to metallic copper in the fabrication of multiplayer printed circuit boards (col.1 lines 12-14). The copper precursors do not contain fluorine (col.3 lines 1-64).

Art Unit: 1762

Yoshizawa discloses a method of coating a copper film on a ceramic substrate (col.1 lines 10-13) in which copper oxide particles are then reduced by the use of a reducing solution to obtain a reduced undercoat having metallic copper particles (col.1 line 58 – col.2 line 16).

However, the references fail to specifically teach reducing a copper oxide layer to form a copper layer on the substrate. It is noted that the references fairly teach reducing copper oxide to form copper. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art after reading the references to reduce copper oxide to form a copper layer on a substrate with the expectation of obtaining similar results.

The limitations of claims 2-18 have been addressed above.

Soininen et al. (6,482,740) has been cited as relevant art.
